

DATA CENTER SECURITY SERVICES

In today's challenging and often austere operating environments, data centers act as repositories for highly sensitive and valuable information, and are subsequently vulnerable to attacks from both internal and external threats—adversaries ranging from foreign intelligence services to corporate espionage actors to lone wolf assailants hold varying motivations for pursuing these targets, and their diverse capabilities to carry out attacks cannot be mitigated with a one-size-fits all approach to security. To effectively protect its assets and people, organizations are forced to consider potential dangers from a variety of perspectives, determining methods to anticipate, mitigate, and in the event of an attack, plan for an emergency response that minimizes the impact to physical and digital property and personnel.

In response to the needs of the data center security market, Constellis developed and deployed a proprietary Integrated Security Platform that incorporates holistic analysis and proactive solutions tailored to this rapidly growing industry. We adapted best practices from decades of work within the U.S. Government Department of Defense (DoD) and Intelligence Community (IC) to anticipate, deter, and react to a wide range of internal and external threats. Constellis' current commercial data center customers include one of the top e-commerce companies in the world, and our approach to protecting our clients is comprised of a full range of integrated protection and enablement needs, including safeguarding data, enabling secure access, assuring regulatory compliance, and thwarting intrusion.
