

Constellis Awarded NAVFAC Contract to Support Naval Station Guantanamo Bay

HERNDON, Va., October 2, 2026 – Centerra Integrated Services LLC, a Constellis company, has been awarded a $49.5 million multi-year job order contract by Naval Facilities Engineering Systems Command Southeast (NAVFAC Southeast) to support facility sustainment, restoration and minor construction at Naval Station Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The contract, which runs through September 2031, includes work across the installation in support of utility networks, airfield operations, deepwater piers, communications facilities, barracks, family housing, clinics and recreational sites. Work will focus on mechanical, electrical and plumbing systems, roofing, building envelope repairs, interior renovations, and environmental services, including lead and asbestos abatement.

The job order contract is an indefinite-delivery, indefinite-quantity contracting vehicle that allows the government to issue task orders as infrastructure needs arise. By using pre-negotiated unit pricing, the contract helps reduce administrative delays and accelerates the delivery of maintenance and infrastructure improvements.

"Naval Station Guantanamo Bay depends on reliable infrastructure to support its mission every day," said Dan Gelston, Constellis CEO. "For years, our teams have supported work at the installation, and we understand the critical need to respond quickly and complete work safely. We appreciate the opportunity to continue supporting NAVFAC and the Navy's mission at Guantanamo Bay."

The award continues Constellis' long-standing service at Naval Station Guantanamo Bay. The company has supported the installation since 2015 and currently works under multiple contract vehicles, including a five-year construction contract awarded in February 2025.

About Constellis

Constellis safeguards success for the world's most critical missions. With more than 65 years of operational experience, we help government and commercial customers mitigate risk, reduce complexity, and maintain readiness in high-consequence environments. Our combination of proven expertise and advanced technology prepares people, protects missions, and secures outcomes when it matters most. Grounded in our commitment to readiness, integrity and discipline, Constellis is the trusted partner for critical operations around the world.

About Centerra

Centerra, a Constellis company, provides construction, facilities support, security, emergency services and other mission support services to government and commercial customers worldwide. With more than 65 years of operational experience, Centerra helps customers maintain critical infrastructure, support operational readiness and sustain essential services in demanding environments. As part of the Constellis family of companies, Centerra combines specialized expertise, experienced personnel and integrated capabilities to support customer missions safely and efficiently. Centerra is a trusted partner for customers operating where performance, responsiveness and reliability matter most.

For Media Requests:

Wendy Stough, Senior Director of Marketing, Communications, and Culture

Wendy.stough@constellis.com

703-673-5986